General Kay Yow Cancer Fund

Cancer is personal, it doesn't discriminate.

Every minute a woman in the US is diagnosed with cancer;
Sisters, mothers, grandmothers, daughters, aunts, spouses, friends

Help us stop the clock on cancer!

Today's game is about uniting against ALL cancers affecting women. As a result of her 22-year battle with cancer, it was Olympic Gold Medal winning and Naismith Hall of Fame Coach Kay Yow's vision to be a part of finding an answer in the fight against cancer.

Every dollar raised, drug developed, and program funded is in strategic service of saving and extending lives and creating better cancer outcomes.

We're louder, stronger, and unstoppable together.

Speaking on Survivors

Battling stage 4 cancer, Olympic Gold medal winning and Naismith Hall of Fame Coach Kay Yow envisioned Play4Kay games would not just raise money in the fight against all cancers affecting women, but would serve as a platform for survivors & thrivers nationwide as they continue to fight against cancer. She saw these games as a way to encourage and give hope.

Today, we honor the courageous women in our community, and we stand with you in your fight.

We are inspired by you!

Your strength and courage propel us to have a quality of spirit that enables us to face difficulty without fear. You lift us up so we can lift others up. You are not alone.

We are louder, stronger, and unstoppable together.
